[REDACTED] who has furnished reliable information in the past, [REDACTED] with reports of a Civil Rights Rally and Kick-off Drive sponsored by the NAACP which was held at the Metropolitan Community Church, 41st and South Park Way, Chicago, Illinois, on May 27, 1956. Informant advised that [REDACTED] of the Chicago Branch of the NAACP, was [REDACTED] of the meeting. Informant advised that an unidentified minister made pertinent remarks on the subject of closing the ranks in the legal battle for human justice. Following this speech, an appeal was made for money to aid the NAACP. Informant advised that [REDACTED] (phonetic) seemed to have some official duty in connection with counting the collection. A [REDACTED] (phonetic) made a speech at this meeting urging all to join in the "fight for freedom and first-class citizenship." He stated that the goal was to have 20,000 in the NAACP in the Chicago area.

The informant advised that [REDACTED] sat at the rear of the meeting and that she passed out campaign packets. Informant observed [REDACTED] mingling throughout the audience selling the current issue of "The American Negro".

The informant advised that the speech of THURGOOD MARSHALL was a report to the Chicago audience of the progress, the problems, and the future aims of the NAACP. Informant advised that MARSHALL pointed out the following in his speech:

He stated that the Southern Negro is at last telling the truth about himself. He is not satisfied with his plight and is certain that something can be done about it. MARSHALL stated that all friends of human dignity must stand up and be counted. He stated that pseudo-liberals have faded away in the hour of need. These individuals, MARSHALL advised, speak out only when and where it was politically expedient. He stated that friends of social justice, white or black, must stand with the NAACP in their fight for first-class citizenship.

MARSHALL told the group that the Negro feels that he has earned the right to personal dignity among other achievements in cultural and economical status. The lowest type white person in the South, according to MARSHALL, also suffers all the evils of the southern economy and cheap labor. His only comfort is that he's "better than the nigger". MARSHALL stated that an economy, such as exists in the South with its segregation, weakens all unions.

MARSHALL pointed out to the group that the violence in the South today is being blamed on the NAACP. He stated that it is claimed that "We push too hard; we're in too big a hurry; it takes years to hammer down tradition", etc.

Informant advised that MARSHALL concluded his speech by calling to the attention of the audience specific cases of college admissions hanging in the courts from four to ten years. He debunked the allegation of the suddenness of the [redacted] case, pointing out that it had been running since 1952.

Informant advised that the ushers at this meeting were headed by [redacted]. Informant advised that she observed [redacted] in front of the church distributing a mimeographed sheet on current social issues before the courts.

THURGOOD MARSHALL

I today met THURGOOD MARSHALL, who spoke at the graduation exercises for the NYC PD recruit class. Prior to the exercises, he advised me that the NY Police were attempting to get in touch with him about the FBI, and he avoided them. I suggested that he go ahead and talk with them although I mentioned I would be rather interested in what he had to say about if he agreed to tell me. He advised me he would be glad to and would be in touch with me when he had time.

This was furnished telephonically to Director Deke DeLoach.

I talked with Mr. MARSHALL on May 19th who had called regarding his interview by reporters of the New York Post. This interview was on May 11, 1959, by a reporter who was probably [REDACTED] b7c

Mr. MARSHALL furnished the following information concerning the interview:

The reporter wanted to know if the NAACP was satisfied with the FBI investigations in the south to which he advised that he, MARSHALL, was satisfied. The Post was interested in knowing whether or not there were any Negro Agents in the FBI. Mr. MARSHALL advised that there were to his knowledge as he personally knew

The reporter indicated they were starting their story along the lines of being about a man whom they could not interview. b7c [REDACTED]

MARSHALL advised he gained the impression that the Post people were looking for something - fishing - that they appeared to be trying to find out what makes Mr. HOOVER tick.

MARSHALL indicated that he didn't like gum-shoeing around by the newspaper people and felt that that is what was being done here by the Post. He didn't know where they were going to go next.

MARSHALL hope the reporters didn't go to the local chapters of the NAACP as they might run into some rumor and no facts. He has always told his people to put up or shut up with regard to us and if he had any complaint with "teeth," he would come to us. If he had no such complaint, he wouldn't.

The above information was furnished to Supervisor [REDACTED] at the Bureau on 5/19/59.

On June 4, 1959, Mr. THURGOOD MARSHALL, Director-Counsel of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, was interviewed at his request.

Mr. MARSHALL at the time of the interview pointed out that recently the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE (NAACP) had difficulty with [REDACTED] of the Union County (North Carolina) Branch of the NAACP. According to MARSHALL, [REDACTED] was suspended due to his actions in connection with the defense of two Negro children who were sent to a North Carolina State Training School for allowing white girls to kiss them on 10/28/58.

RE: COMMITTEE TO COMBAT RACIAL INJUSTICE; IS-SWT

MARSHALL related that [REDACTED] did not go through ordinary channels in seeking NAACP Defense Council for the boys and as a result charges were brought against him. Consequently, [REDACTED] utilized the services of [REDACTED] and together they organized the Committee to Combat Racial Injustice (CCRI) to aid in the defense of the 2 Negro boys. [REDACTED] also has appeared before the NAACP board, which was hearing charges involving the suspension of [REDACTED] from his position with the NAACP in North Carolina.

In addition Mr. MARSHALL furnished a letterhead of a new organization the [REDACTED] DEFENSE COMMITTEE, with headquarters at Suite 1117, 141 Broadway, New York City, which is also the headquarters of the CCRI and the offices of [REDACTED]. The letterhead dated 5/27/59, lists CONRAD LYNN as counsel to the committee, which has as its purpose the defending of [REDACTED] the NAACP leader in North Carolina who urged Negroes to defend themselves by "meeting violence with violence."

Mr. MARSHALL made available to the NYC copies of material, Photostats of which are being enclosed to the Bureau and Charlotte.

b7C

1. A letterhead of the [REDACTED] DEFENSE COMMITTEE, which states the purposes of the organization.

2. A memorandum of the NAACP in North Carolina dated December 26, 1958.

3. Another memorandum from the NAACP in North Carolina, which is undated.

The above set forth the background resulting in the

Formation of the [REDACTED] NAACP COMMITTEE.

In January Mr. MARSHALL mentioned that his purpose in furnishing the information was due to the fact that he believed [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] will seek to arouse the people in the North Carolina area to take action which could become violent and cause racial unrest and tension. He pointed out in observing similar matters in the past, he is afraid of people agitating on such matters in the South since race tension can be easily aroused, especially during the summer months. Mr. MARSHALL added that he believes the [REDACTED] NAACP COMMITTEE will be used as a pressure group within the NAACP and that the matter of [REDACTED] statement might possibly become an issue at the forthcoming National Convention of the NAACP to be held in NYC on July 13 to 19, 1959.

With reference to [REDACTED] Mr. MARSHALL pointed out that the NAACP board meeting on June 3, 1959, had voted to continue the suspension of [REDACTED] as a leader of the NAACP in North Carolina. In mentioning the CCRI, Mr. MARSHALL pointed out that he believes that the Attorney General of North Carolina might have information concerning persons who donated money to aid the CCRI and if contacted he believes the Attorney General would be willing to furnish this information to the Bureau.

A separate investigation will be initiated in the NYC concerning the [REDACTED] NAACP COMMITTEE in order to determine the extent of the activities of this organization.

Mr. MARSHALL advised that no one else in the NAACP was aware of the fact that he had furnished the above information to the FBI. He added that in the event any additional information came to his attention concerning the [REDACTED] NAACP COMMITTEE, he would communicate with this office.

WHERE DO YOU STAND on the question of SELF — DEFENSE ?

Robert Williams, NAACP president in Union County, North Carolina, was suspended from his post by NAACP Secretary Roy Wilkins. Williams' "crime" is that he said Negroes can't expect justice from Jim Crow courts, and should "meet violence with violence". On June 3 he was put on trial before an NAACP committee in New York, whose recommendations will be taken up by the NAACP national board on June 8.

Who is right — Williams or Wilkins?
Should Negroes defend themselves when attacked or should they turn the other cheek?

With school integration still a goal to be reached five years after the Supreme Court decision; with the murder of Mack Charles Parker, dragged from his Mississippi jail cell; with recent court decisions freeing white men accused of assaulting Negro women; with continued violence directed against Negroes, North and South — the debate now rages: HOW SHALL NEGROES PROTECT THEMSELVES AND THEIR RIGHTS?

What program is needed to win the fight for Negro equality?

Thurgood Marshall

By Irwin Ross

ARTICLE I

TO VAST NUMBERS of Negroes, here and abroad, Thurgood Marshall is "Mr. Civil Rights." Many honors have been bestowed on him—including an honorary chieftainship of an African tribe—since Marshall won the famous school desegregation cases in the Supreme Court in 1954. Adulation, however, has its drawbacks.

Not long ago, he was awakened in the dead of night by a telephone call from a woman in Texas. Arrests of Negro youths had occurred at a sit-in demonstration and his unknown admirer was certain that Marshall was the only man capable of fighting the cases. It took him 20 minutes to persuade the woman that there were competent local lawyers whom he could make available.

On another occasion, he was routed out of bed by a collect call from Virginia. The caller, another stranger, had excitedly informed the operator that he had to talk to Marshall about some emergency involving the NAACP. Marshall accepted the charges—whereupon his caller proceeded to denounce him in barracks language.

These nocturnal hazards would be avoided, of course, if Marshall removed his number from the telephone directory. He refuses to do so, fearing that some day a genuine emergency might require his attention at 3 a.m. Then, too, the privacy of an unlisted number might give the impression that he had suddenly gone snooty. Few impressions would more dismay Marshall, for he has long prided himself on being on terms of easy familiarity with the rank-and-file. In the Negro press, he is often referred to merely as "Thurgood."

Marshall is a man equally at home in a Harlem bar and in the hushed precincts of the Supreme Court. His manner varies, of course. In court, he speaks the King's English with precision and eloquence and without a trace of Southern accent. In a bar, or in his office, he exudes the boisterous and garrulous folksiness of a typical Southern politician.

Loud and Long

The rendition is perfect, though he comes from no farther south than Baltimore. He lapses into a heavy drawl, cusses genially, laughs uproariously at the mildest witticism; at any moment one expects to see him snap his suspenders (but he wears a belt). College classmates recall him as the loudest man in the dormitory. He is no different at the age of 54.

Marshall is tall (6-foot-3) and broad, with the well-added facade of a man who dotes on food, drinks three martinis before lunch and hates exercise. He seldom walks when he can ride and is pleased to say that he is now too old to learn how to swim.

None of this is to suggest that he is lazy: his activity is merely cerebral and verbal, but he is a demon for work. When the pressure is on, he can get along on something less than five hours sleep a night, for several nights running. He has the happy faculty of sleeping at will, even sitting in a chair, when he can snatch an idle 15 minutes.

The tag of "Mr. Civil Rights," the eight honorary degrees, the Spingarn Medal and his treasure chest of other awards celebrate one of the most remarkable careers at the bar in recent years. Since 1938, when he went to work full-time for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Marshall has led the legal battle to secure for Negroes the full exercise of their Constitutional rights.

He has appeared 28 times before the U. S. Supreme Court, winning in all but three cases. His noteworthy victories cover a broad area. He won a number of cases involving exclusion of Negroes from juries, conviction through forced confessions and other transgressions of due process.

Cracking of the "white primary" in the South, in a 1944 Supreme Court decision, opened the voting rolls to many thousands of excluded Negroes. Two years later, the Supreme Court outlawed Jim Crow restrictions in interstate travel. In 1948, in another case argued by Marshall, the court held that restrictive covenants—which excluded Negroes and other minorities from the rental or buying of real estate—were unenforceable in the courts. These cases all led up to the decisive breakthrough on the educational front in 1954.

In 1944, after the primary case was won, Marshall and his staff celebrated with a vigorous office party. At one of the proceedings, he named the various girls in the office as "first assistant secretary," "second assistant," and on, and directed that incoming calls be passed from one to the other before reaching him. (Normally, she gets Marshall on the phone without the intervention of any secretary).

The next morning, while dreadfully hung over, Marshall received a phone call from Mr. Justice Frank Murphy, who explained that he had tried to reach Marshall the previous day but had been unable to pierce the wall of secretaries.

"I apologized profusely," Marshall recalls, "and Murphy agreed that a guy had the right to get drunk at a time like that. Then he invited me to lunch."

A decade later, when the Supreme Court issued the school decision, the office celebration was muted.

"Perhaps it was because we were older," says Marshall. "Besides I had some idea of what we were up against." He insists that the tortuous legal struggle that followed came as no surprise.

These days, when he looks back to 1954, he is in no mood to exult. ("We have won the main fight—the main legal fight—but now we're getting to the point of counting the people involved, not merely the law suits.") And when he counts people, he notes that only 8 per cent of the school children in olved have been desegregated in six years. Hardly satisfactory, he suggests.

"We've reached a stage where we have to re-evaluate the whole setup," Marshall says. "We have been slowed down by the pupil-assignment plans, the mill-stap plans. Our initial job, after the Supreme Court decision, was to get a court decision in each state. We now have one in every state except Alabama and Mississippi. Today the job is to implement these decisions, to keep the cases from dragging on for five or six years."

New legal techniques may be needed, he indicates. To canvass the possibilities, Marshall is holding a two-day conference this month of lawyers who have been involved in the desegregation campaign these past several years.

Did he have any idea of what these new techniques might be? "No, but I will have after the conference," Marshall said. He is a man for teamwork, research papers and endless discussion with the experts. It is a point of pride with him that he is an accomplished brainpicker.

The legal effort, in his opinion, is only half the fight, the other half being the community pressure mobilized by the NAACP and other groups. For the past several years, the division of labor has been clear-cut. Contrary to popular view, Marshall is no longer chief lawyer for the NAACP. That man is Robert L. Carter, who used to be Marshall's assistant. Marshall's job is that of director-counsel of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund Inc., a separate organization.

Under Pressure

When the fund was first set up, in 1939, it was basically a device to secure tax exemption for contributions to the NAACP's legal work. Both organizations were housed in the same quarters and shared certain staff personnel. In recent years, however, what began as a legal convenience has become an organizational reality—as a consequence of Southern pressure to lift the fund's tax-exempt status and invoke ambulance-chasing laws against lawyers suspected of getting cases through the NAACP. With Marshall as boss, the fund has separate quarters and its own board and budget (currently $350,000 a year). Fifteen blocks south, Roy Wilkins runs the NAACP.

Though he is perched on the 17th floor of an air-conditioned office building at 10 Columbus Circle, Marshall clearly hears the sound of distant combat. By no means are all the fund's cases argued in the discreet atmosphere of federal courts, where the judges are normally gentlemen. For the past several months, the fund's largest load of new cases has come from the mass arrests of sit-in demonstrators and pickets at lunch counters throughout the South.

The demonstrations make the headlines, then comes the arduous task of processing the cases through the courts. A major effort is to win acceptance of the view that the police have no legal power to enforce the discriminatory preferences of store-owners. It is likely to be a long contest. To handle the load, Marshall's New York staff works with a network of local lawyers throughout the South.

During 22 years on the job, Marshall has seen barrier after barrier go down; there is solid reason for satisfaction—but none for complacency, he believes.

Some time back, Marshall was cloistered with two federal judges. Said one judge: "Several years ago, when we discussed all this, did you think we'd come so far so fast?"

"No sir," said Marshall.

"Then don't you think you're pushing us too fast now?"

"No sir," Marshall repeated.

Whereupon the other judge asked his colleague: "What did you expect him to say?"

In Marshall's view, "There's never time for a breather"—the wheels of justice grind too slowly.

COMMUNIST INFILTRATION OF
NEGRO AMERICAN LABOR COUNCIL
INTERNAL SECURITY - COMMUNIST

A source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, furnished the following information on February 23 and 28, 1961.

The Negro American Labor Council Workshop and Institute on Race Bias in Trade Unions, Industry and Government, was held on February 17-18, 1961, at the Metropolitan Baptist Church, 1225 E Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.

The first session opened at 10:00 a.m., Friday, February 17, 1961.

[REDACTED] Negro American Labor Council (NALC), presided and presented a "Position Paper of the Negro American Labor Council Workshop and Institute on Race Bias in Trade Unions, Industry, and Government" which assailed denials of equal job opportunities for Negroes in these three areas. It condemned the institutionalism of discrimination and the "tokenism" which allows the veneering of discrimination by the fact of a few Negroes being hired in different jobs. It likewise was critical of the exclusion of Negro youth from apprenticeship training programs. Discrimination has been found in the area administered by the Federal Government. Education is still infected with discrimination. The Negro today is through the Civil Rights Revolution attempting to complete the still unfinished social revolution of the Civil War. The Negro people must organize their full resources to achieve complete equality.

RE: COMMUNIST INFILTRATION OF
NEGRO AMERICAN LABOR COUNCIL

The keynote address was delivered by A. Phillip Randolph, President, Negro American Labor Council, under the title "Economic and Ethnic Democracy in Trade Unions, Industry and Government".

Randolph emphasized the depressed condition of the Negro is chronic and results from unskilled or semi-skilled status, no seniority, segregation, and a conspiracy which unions, industry and government practice in the denial of equal job opportunities, the blocking of Negroes from apprentice training, and from the growth of automation.

Randolph said the NALC was founded on the basic philosophy of belief in: rights to equal job opportunities and to learn a job; full employment in a democratic society; democratic, free trade unionism; alliance between the Negro community and the labor community on terms of equality and without compromise on the basic principle of the civil rights revolution; union democracy; a broad national policy of integration of Negro workers into apprenticeship training programs; desegregation of racially segregated unions; and that tokenism represents an illusion and is an affront to the Negro.

Randolph declared that the NALC is not a labor union, is non-partisan but not non-political; it will support broad programs for civil rights and the rights of labor sponsored by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and the AFL-CIO. It is anti-race bias in the AFL-CIO. It is not anti-white, but pro-Negro; it is anti-white supremacy. It is anti-Communist, anti-Fascist, anti-racist (black or white), anti-colonialist, and anti-imperialist, but pro-African, Asian, and Latin American revolutionary nationalism.

Randolph projected the following proposals:

1. ALF-CIO conference to urge within six months the initiation of desegregation in local unions.
2. Urging the ending of exclusion of workers of color from membership by the ritual of tacit consent.
3. Urging union consideration of apprentice-training programs.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

RE: COMMUNIST INFILTRATION OF
NEGRO AMERICAN LABOR COUNCIL

4. Urging election of Negro trade unionists to policy-making bodies of local, national, and international unions.

5. Appointment of another Negro trade unionist to membership on the Executive Council of the AFL-CIO.

6. Integration of qualified Negro office and staff workers into all departments of the general headquarters of the AFL-CIO in Washington, D.C.

7. Placement of additional Negro trade unionists on the Civil Rights Committee. Members of the Executive Council should be urged to set an example by having their unions set up civil rights committees and departments.

8. Reorganize the Civil Rights Department by having a qualified Negro trade unionist as Director. A native white Southerner sound on civil rights and a sound trade unionist should be placed on the staff, with an adequate interracial office force. It is recommended that the President or Secretary-Treasurer of the AFL-CIO serve as the Chairman of the Committee.

9. An executive order should be issued by President Kennedy to investigate the employment policies of all the departments of the federal government, with a view to eliminating the practice of race bias in same.

10. Recommendation of an executive order to investigate the methods, promotion, and upgrading on government jobs, with a view to providing an equal opportunity for every worker, regardless of race or color.

11. Recommendation that President Kennedy provide the President's Committee on Government Employment Policy with the status of White House authority for effective execution and implementation of a no-discrimination job policy in every department, agency, commission, and bureau.

12. Recommendation of an investigation of the administration of Federal Civil Service rules that invite discrimination by allowing choice of any of the top three applicants, and exceptions to even the "rule of three" make it possible to avoid hiring a Negro even when all three top candidates are Negro.

13. Recommendation that President Kennedy issue an executive order requiring that all federal government contracting agencies strictly enforce the non-discrimination clause which is not now being done.

14. Recommendation that President Kennedy issue an executive order providing that the federal government assume a more vital role in promoting a nation-wide crash program for the training of skilled workers and guarantee that federal assistance to all craft training systems be limited to programs which do not discriminate on a basis of race or color.

Finally, to call upon the President of the United States and the President of the AFL-CIO and the leaders of industry, the most powerful country and labor movement and industry in the world, to issue a clarion call to the government, the workers and management to respect, recognize and support the God-given right of every human being, regardless of race or color, to earn a living in the sweat of his brow.

[REDACTED] asked for a floor motion to adopt the proposals. Motion made and adopted.

Opening statements were made by Arthur J. Goldberg, United States Secretary of Labor; [REDACTED] NAACP; [REDACTED] Director of Industrial Relations, National Urban League; Thurgood Marshall, Director, NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Incorporated, and [REDACTED] New York State Commission against Discrimination. b7c

Mr. Goldberg admitted that bias existed in industry and government. He said industry could do much better, that it only will harm itself by not training all forces. Our government has pledged to do all in its power to eradicate bias and prejudice in government and industry. He cited figures to show that there is a greater number of Negroes unemployed than whites.

[REDACTED] emphasized the need for admitting qualified Negroes into apprenticeship training programs and into other forms of vocational training. Federal and state agencies should withhold funds and other forms of subsidization from those apprentice training programs which exclude Negroes. The AFL-CIO should begin to enforce seriously its declarations in the matter of racial exclusion practices and segregation.

[REDACTED] State Commission Against Discrimination, New York, New York, pointed out that some states, including New York, have legal measures available to enforce non-discrimination, and if any matter takes priority, it is that of education of Negro working men and women to make full use of the tools at their disposal.

[REDACTED] stated he got a report from Africa asking that Negroes be sent there trained as engineers, that the opportunities are unlimited. Russia is sending people by the carloads, and it is possible the Russian and Chinese Communists will take over. He said the training of the Russian people shocked him. He urged that the conference go on record to ask for a thorough study of the trade training system.

✓ Thurgood Marshall urged that the NALC, Urban League, and the NAACP work together to insure jobs for Negroes without binding themselves to any party.

[REDACTED] Racial Adviser, United States Employment Service, Washington, D.C., made a statement on Apprenticeship Training Program. He characterized the failure of Negro skilled workers and inability of Negro youth to find apprenticeship training as a bottleneck impeding full employment of minority group workers in this country. He urged that organizations in American community life be made aware of this.

Witnesses then appeared to tell of discriminatory practices which they had encountered.

The witnesses included:

[REDACTED] Local 3, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, New York City

[REDACTED] who testified for his son, Washington, D.C.

A "Mass Labor Education Rally" was held from 7:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. on Friday evening. Approximately 2,000 were in attendance, and the collection amounted to about $1,300.

Programmed speakers included the Honorable Adam Clayton Powell, House of Representatives, Congress of the United States, and Doctor Martin Luther King, President, Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Representative Powell pledged support to the NALC because he was tired of the Negro suffering in the richest country in the world. He condemned the conditions of the Negroes in the South. He asserted money would not be made available for segregated schools. Representative Powell received a standing ovation at the conclusion of his remarks.

Doctor King reviewed attacks on him in his career of fighting for civil rights. He talked of the struggle of the Negro youth who are striking out for themselves. He said NALC had a moral responsibility to support them. He disclaimed achievement of objectives by violence and urged pacific means.

On Saturday, February 18, the morning session which was a panel on Union Democracy began at 10:00 a.m.

[redacted] International Ladies Garment Workers Union, Chicago, Illinois, was allowed to speak at this time. She presented the following proposals:

[REDACTED] employed in the Department of State, Washington, D.C., was overheard stating she had come to the conference for help because she felt she had been passed over for more than a year in being promoted. An explanation was made to her that membership in a union and in the NALC was necessary before the NALC could accept a grievance. She stated she is not a member of the NALC.

The temper of the workshop generally was one of determination for finding ways to accomplish the objectives of the proposals made by A. Phillip Randolph in his keynote address.

No overt activity on the part of members of the Communist Party was evident on the floor of the meeting.
